Romania

Brasov

Brasov is one of the most popular tourist cities in Romania. Founded in the 13th century as the most south-eastern German city in Transylvania, Brasov is now a historical and economic centre.

The market square | Piața Sfatului

The market square is of great importance for Brasov and also for Romania. It is one of the city's most important sights and is visited by thousands of tourists every year. In the Middle Ages and in modern times, regular markets were organised here and traders from all Romanian regions, but also from Hungary, for example, came to the square. Goods were taxed in front of the city gate at the end of the customs road (today Mureșenilor Street).

Black Church| Biserica Neagră

The Black Church is the largest Gothic building between Vienna and Istanbul. It has been known by its current name since 1689, when a great fire destroyed a large part of the city and blackened the walls of the church.

The White Tower | Turnul Alb

For a marvellous view over the entire old town, a visit to the White Tower is a must. It was built between 1460 and 1494 and still impresses today with its solidity and flowing lines. As a result of a major fire in 1689, the White Tower burnt down almost completely and was not rebuilt until 1723.

BRASOV

The Black Tower | Turnul Negru

The Black Tower is one of Kronstadt's four observation towers and was built as an independent fortification outside the city walls. It has a height of 11 metres. Construction of the tower began at the end of the 16th and beginning of the 17th century.

Experience Sibiu

A city with a history of over 830 years, Sibiu still preserves today a great part of its valuable built heritage. It is a perfect location for a city break, with great cuisine and quaint little cafés, in a beautiful historic setting. For those looking for an active vacation, hundreds of outdoor cultural and sports events take place each year in Sibiu, a mountain resort for skiing is at a short distance from Sibiu, as well as water-sports Complex and bike tracks all through the city.

A CITY YOUNG SINCE 1191, CONTINUING TO CELEBRATE ITS HISTORY TODAY

Sibiu/Hermannstadt was first mentioned in official documents in 1191. Today, the city still preserves a good part of its 830 years of history: defense towers, fortress walls, passageways, cobbled streets, cozy little squares between old houses with iconic eyes on the roofs and a large central square, which is the main stage for the city life.

Part of the city's built heritage are its historical churches. A multicultural location in the past and the present, Sibiu also celebrates religious diversity. The historical center, for instance, hosts 8 cathedrals or churches representing different religions or rites, all historical buildings of great beauty and a wonderful architecture.

A city of Culture

Sibiu is a cultural location acknowledged worldwide. This is mainly due to its excellent cultural institutions such as the Brukenthal National Museum, the ASTRA National Museum Complex, Radu Stanca National Theatre, Gong Theatre for Children and Youth, the Ballet Theatre, and the State Philharmonics.

Sibiu was European Capital of Culture in 2007 and since then the city's cultural life became a development vector, due to the efforts of local cultural institutions and those of other event organizers, but also due to the support of the local administration which invests every year considerable amounts in the cultural development. Today, public spaces and indoor locations host hundreds of events each year, from large festivals and concerts to exhibitions and book launches.

The International Theatre Festival in Sibiu is the city's largest and most emblematic event, being one of the most important theatre festivals worldwide. For 10 days, at the beginning of summer, the Festival makes the city vibrate with over 800 open-air and indoor performances. Several other festivals take place in Sibiu each year, from classical, jazz or rock music to pop music or gastronomical events.

OPEN-AIR CAFES AND RESTAURANTS BETWEEN THE FORTRESS WALLS

Open-air cafés and restaurants are part of the charm of the historical center, perfect for enjoying coffee, food or a nice glass of wine and allowing you to breathe in the city life while. Taste the local traditional cuisine because it is an experience in itself – it is a taste of history and multicultural traditions.

SIBIU BIKE CITY – EXPLORE IT SUSTAINBLY, IN A PLEASANT BIKE RIDE

Sibiu is a European city, on its way to a more sustainable mobility. In addition to a completely updated local public transportation system, we created a network of bike tracks and public bike rental stations all over the city. If the historical center is best visited on foot, you can explore the rest of the city by bike. Start you trip in the historical center, go along the bike tracks on the riverbanks, take a break in the new Belvedere Park and move on to Dumbrava Forest where you can visit the oldest Zoo in the country and the open-air ASTRA Museum of traditional folkloric civilization.

Inspired by this story, Vlad III became the main character Count Dracula in the novel of the same name by Irish writer Bram Stoker. Bram Stoker transformed the epithet Drăculea (in German: Der Sohn des Drachen, alluding to the father Vlad II. Dracul) to Dracula and used the historical region of Transylvania as the background for his novel.

Transalpina | The King´s Way

The Transalpina or "The King's Way", as the road is also known, is usually open from the beginning / middle of June to the end of October / beginning of November (depending on the snow conditions).

The Transalpina (in Romanian: Drum național 67C) crosses part of the Carpathian Mountains and connects the town of Novaci in Gorj County in Lesser Wallachia with the town of Sebes in Alba County in Transylvania. Over a length of 138 kilometres, this road crosses the Parang Mountains and has its highest point in the Urdele Pass. It reaches an altitude of up to 2,140 metres.

Transfagarasan | Balea Lake

The road is a magical route in and through the Fagaras Mountains. Open from the end of June to October (depending on snow conditions), it connects the historic regions of Wallachia and Transylvania and leads through the breathtaking mountain landscapes of the Carpathians. At its highest point at 2,034 metres is the glacial lake Balea Lac, which can also be reached by cable car in winter.

Lake Balea has a diameter of around 360 metres, a surface area of around 4,6500 square metres and a depth of up to 11 metres. In 1993, the lake and 180 hectares around it were declared a nature reserve.

Historical regions in Romania

Transylvania

Transylvania is a historical and geographical region in the south-eastern Carpathian region with a chequered history. Today, Transylvania lies in the centre of Romania.

The landscape diversity of Transylvania is unique in Europe: here there is an interplay of extensively farmed areas, "intact" villages and traditional agriculture, as it existed in other parts of Europe in the 19th century. In addition to the rich flower meadows, wolves and bears can also be found in the relatively lowlands of Transylvania.

Banat

Banat lies on the south-eastern edge of the Hungarian Plain and is bordered by the rivers Tisza in the west, Danube in the south and (mostly) Marosch in the north, as well as the Southern Carpathians in the east. To the north-east - to the right of the Marosch - is the Arad region, which can also be categorised as part of Banat, at least in terms of cultural geography.

Moldova

Moldova's landscape is undulating and 80 % cultivated land, thanks to the fertile black soil in the steppes of the south. In the north, there are hilly plains with sparse oak forests and tree steppes. The warm, dry climate makes large-scale viticulture and fruit growing possible.

Oltenia

The landscape is bordered to the east by the River Olt, which is the origin of the region's Romanian name. In German, it is also known as the small Wachalei.

Bucovina

The landscape borders the Carpathian Mountains in the south-west. In 1895, the country's climate was described as "healthy but harsh", with an average annual temperature of 8.3 °C in Chernivtsi.

Dobruja

Northern Dobruja is a flat coastal strip with many marshland areas in the northern part and the liman lakes of the Danube. The western part of South Dobruja is hilly, while the eastern part is flat and dry.

Maramures

The Maramures Mountains can be found here. The mountain range is located in the Romanian county of Maramureș and in the Rajon Rachiw in the south-east of the Ukrainian oblast of Transcarpathia.

Crisana

It is bordered to the south by the Merezh River, to the east by the Apuseni Mountains and to the west by the Tisza River. The most important city ("capital") in Crisana is Oradea.

Muntenia

The river Olt forms the border between Muntenia and Oltenia. Part of the traditional border between Wallachia/Muntenia and Moldavia was formed by the Milcov and Siret rivers.

Buzau | UNESCO Geopark

The town of Buzau is located on the river of the same name and the south-eastern foothills of the Carpathian Mountains in south-east Romania. The town's landmark is the Palatul Comunal (historically the municipal palace, now the town hall), which was built in 1903. It is a palatial building in the typical Romanian Brancoveanu style, like many municipal theatres and other buildings of the time.

Mud volcanoes | Vulcanii Noroioși

The mud volcanoes are located around 20 kilometres northwest of Buzau in the UNESCO Geopark. These are a unique geological phenomenon in Europe, where earth and gas eruptions create surreal formations.

Sulina

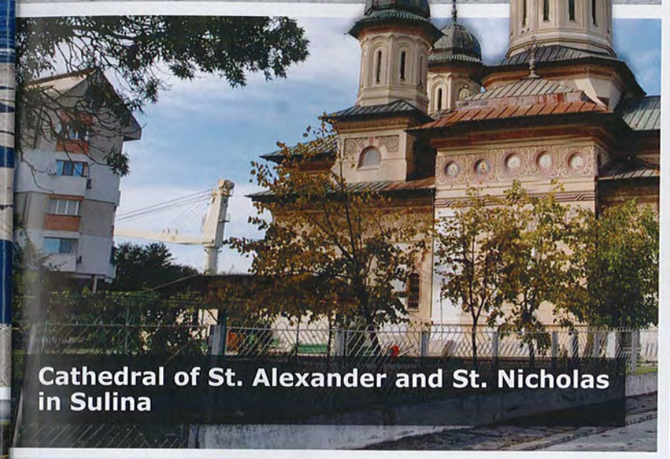
"The lonely city at the Black Sea"

The town of Sulina is not connected to the Romanian road network and can only be reached by water via private boats and passenger ships. It is located at the easternmost point of Romania, at the mouth of the Danube and directly on the Black Sea.

Sulina already had an important river and sea harbour in Byzantine, later Genoese and Turkish times. However, it lost its importance in modern times due to the construction of larger harbours (e.g. in Galati, Braila, ...).

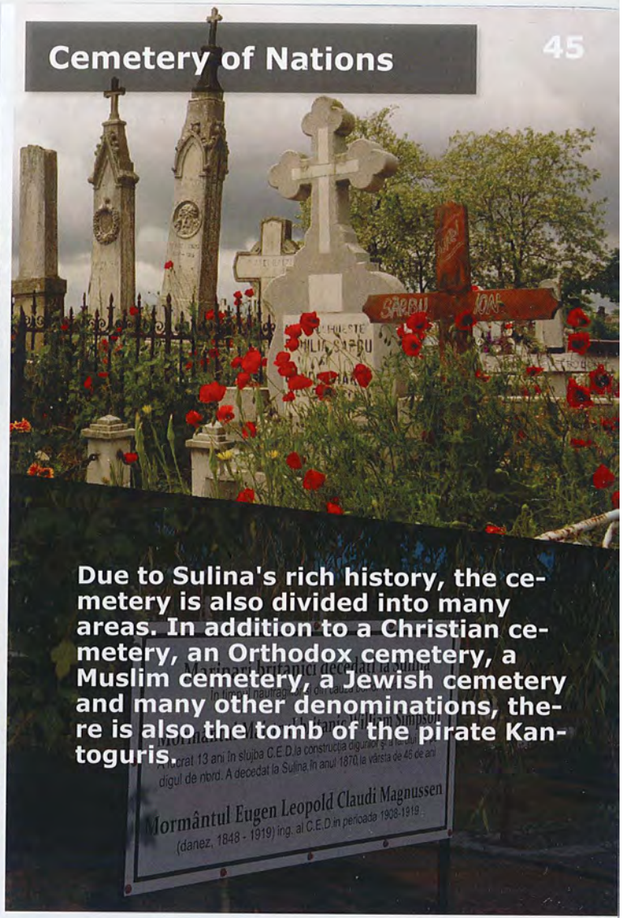
Danube estuary | kilometre 0

The mouth of the Danube (Mila 0) is located in the so-called Sulina arm of the Danube, directly opposite the town of Sulina.



Cathedral of St. Alexander and St. Nicholas in Sulina

Cemetery of Nations



Due to Sulina's rich history, the cemetery is also divided into many areas. In addition to a Christian cemetery, an Orthodox cemetery, a Muslim cemetery, a Jewish cemetery and many other denominations, there is also the tomb of the pirate Kantoguris.

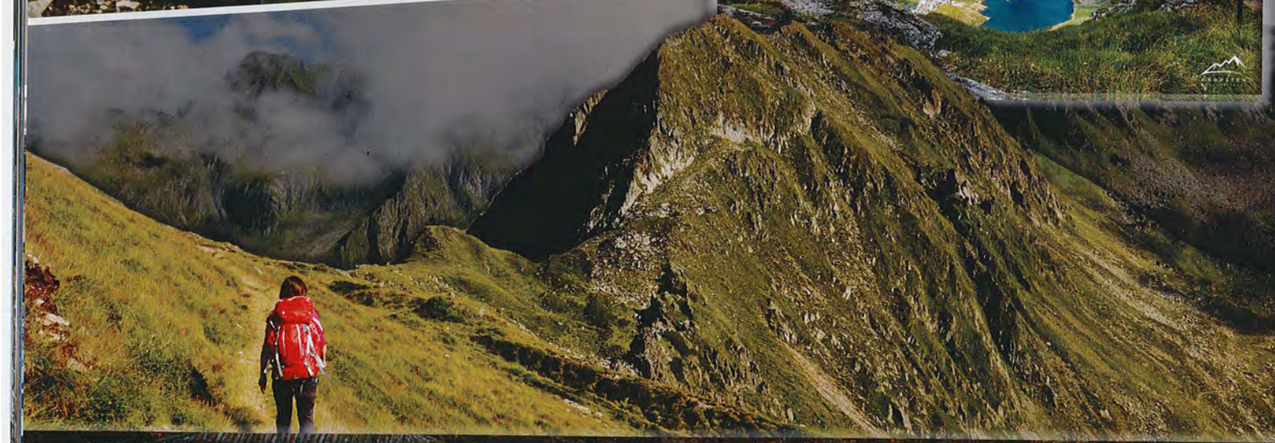
High mountains Carpathians

The Carpathians are a high mountain range in Central Europe, Eastern Europe and South-Eastern Europe. They form an arc over 1,300 km long, 100-350 km wide and open to the west, which continues to the west in the Alps and to the southeast in the Balkan and Rhodope Mountains. The Romanian Fagaras Massif (Fogaras Mountains) in the Southern Carpathians is the second largest mountain range in the Carpathians. At 2,544 meters, Mount Moldoveanu is the highest mountain in Romania.



Nature of the Carpathians

In 2003, seven Carpathian countries joined forces and adopted the Carpathian Convention, which coordinates measures to protect the landscape and nature of the mountains.

On May 24, 2010, the "Day of National Parks in the Carpathians" was celebrated in five countries with the participation of around 30 national parks and protected areas in order to raise awareness of the area and highlight its worthiness of protection.

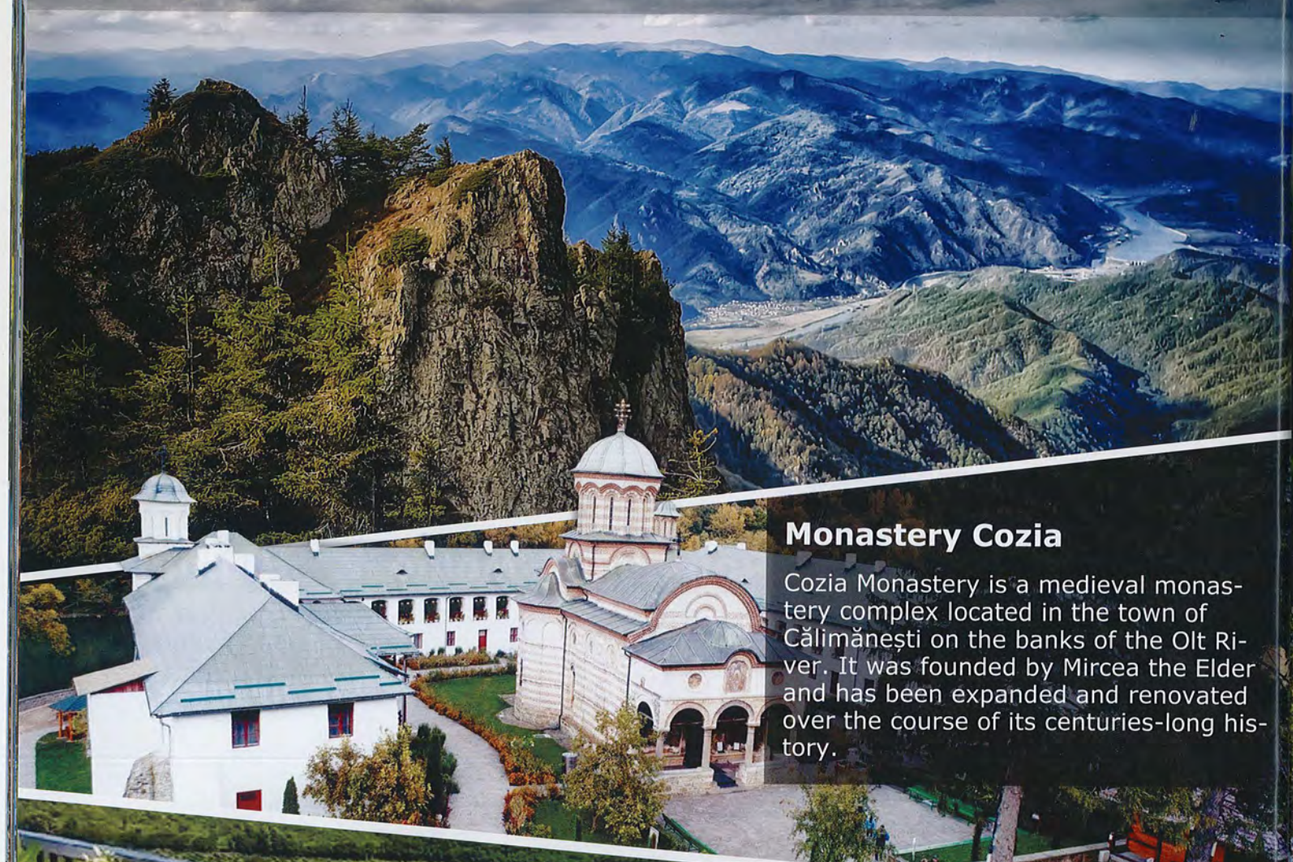
Valcea

The Valcea region is known for its healing springs, unspoiled nature and wine-growing. Especially the hills in the area of the town of Drăgășani in the south of the county are also known as the "Tuscany of Romania" and are famous for viticulture / wine production. In the north, the county is particularly known for the healing properties of its mineral water.



Monastery Cozia

Cozia Monastery is a medieval monastery complex located in the town of Călimănești on the banks of the Olt River. It was founded by Mircea the Elder and has been expanded and renovated over the course of its centuries-long history.

The Valcea Wine Route

Drăgășani has a special place in the Romanian winegrowing tradition. The terraces formed on both sides of the Olt Valley have proven to be an exceptional place for viticulture.

Salzbergwerk Ocnele Mari

Wine region Dragasani

Romania is one of the few countries in the world that can look back on a wine-growing tradition dating back thousands of years. The Dragasani wine region, located on the slopes of the Olt river valley, is one of the best-known wine-growing areas in the Oltenia region.

Hotel Hanul Vatra

Hotel Hanul Vatra is the perfect place for a weekend in the countryside, away from the noise of the big city. For private parties, hikes with friends in the mountains of Valcea, team building meetings or simply to relax. There are also many interesting sights nearby, such as the Horezu Monastery, the famous Horezu ceramics factory and much more.

Bucovina | Moldavian monasteries

The so-called Moldavian monasteries are located in Bukovina and were built in the 15th and 16th centuries in what was then the Moldavian principality. The monasteries are famous for their magnificent frescoes. Many of the buildings date back to Stephen the Great, who is said to have founded a monastery for every battle he won. Eight of them are World Heritage Sites.

What is special about the Moldavian monasteries is their colorful painting, which is unique in Europe. The monks wanted to bring the contents of the Holy Scriptures closer to the people who could neither write nor read. And so they used the interior walls, facades and protective walls of the monastery to depict scenes and parables from the Bible in colorful drawings, paintings and frescoes. These are considered absolute masterpieces of Byzantine art.

Worth seeing

Historical monuments, museums, traditions and customs, arts and crafts are testimonies that speak of Bukovina's past and the elements that define its culture today - people, lifestyles, customs of the place.

Bukovina is known worldwide for its painted churches and monasteries, true masterpieces of medieval art and architecture. Eight of them are on the UNESCO World Heritage List for their uniqueness and artistic value (Sucevita, Moldovita, Arbore, Voronet, Humor, Patrauti, Probota and St. Johannes).

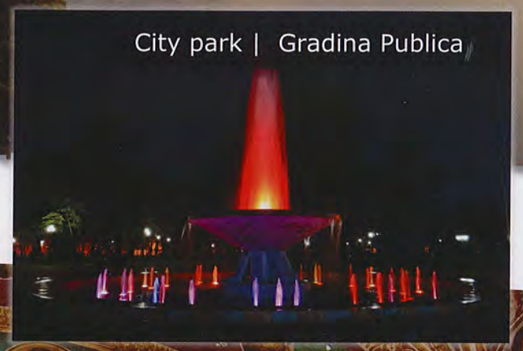
Galati

Galati is the county capital of the county of the same name in the historical region of Moldova in Romania. In the past, it was often visited by royal families and, as an important port city on the Danube, was one of the richest cities in Romania. Today, it is still worth a visit. Just a few kilometers from the Danube Delta, it invites you to stroll along the Faleza (riverside promenade) with a width of up to 900 meters of the Danube or to linger in one of the city's many parks.



City park | Gradina Publica

The fortress church St. Precista

The church of St. Precista in Galati is located high up, at the highest point of the waterfront promenade, with a fantastic view over the Danube. The church is the oldest building in the city and was consecrated in September 1647, during the reign of Vasile Lupu.

Center & Faleza (waterfront promenade)

The waterfront of Galati is an oasis of peace for the inhabitants and all tourists visiting this wonderful city. With a length of about 2 km, it is also a great place for walking and relaxing. At the end of the promenade there is a playground (center of the city), as well as a variety of restaurants and cafes.

Maramures | Mocanita

Maramureș is a region and a Romanian county in the north of the country with the county capital Baia Mare. It borders Ukraine to the north and north-east, Suceava County to the east, Bistrița-Năsăud County to the south-east, Cluj and Sălaj Counties to the south and Satu Mare County to the west
